Capital District Community Gardens Welcomes New Board Member and Management Staffer

New Management Supporting the Creation of Ten New Jobs

Capital District Community Gardens, the non-profit that nourishes healthy communities by providing access to fresh food and green spaces for all, recently welcomed a new member to its Board of Directors and a staffer to its management team.

The organization has created 10 new jobs in just the past two years and anticipates continued growth for the 23-member staff. In support of this expansion, CDCG created an Operations Manager position to assist its management team with human resources, finance, communications and fundraising. The organization's growth is, in part, attributed to the expansion of its Board of Directors, a group of 21 professionals who work together to help set CDCG's programmatic agenda along with the organization's long-time Executive Director, Amy Klein.

Anne Nardacci – joins CDCG's Board of Directors. An attorney at Boies, Schiller and Flexner LLP in Albany, Nardacci has extensive experience litigating all phases of commercial actions. Nardacci currently resides in Loudonville.

Jessica Trowbridge – is CDCG's new Operations Manager. A Troy native, Trowbridge interned at CDCG while she attended RPI in the 1990's. Since then she has acquired more than 12 years of business development experience and served on CDCG's Autumn Evening and Garden Bowl event committees. Trowbridge currently resides in Glenmont.
